Delta-Schoolcraft I.S.D. Career and Technical Education Honor Society Introduction

Students at the Delta-Schoolcraft I.S.D. Career and Technical Education (CTE) Center are learning valuable skills that will enable them to become highly trained technicians in their trade. In addition to technical skills, students are developing leadership abilities through their participation in vocational organizations like Educators Rising, SkillsUSA, and Health Occupations Students of America (HOSA). A well rounded student also expresses caring and concern for their community through volunteer activities. When students demonstrate technical skills, leadership ability, and good citizenship, they are positioned to make valuable contributions to their community and their profession.

The Delta-Schoolcraft I.S.D. values such well-rounded individuals, and wishes to acknowledge the good character and the achievements of these outstanding students. CTE Honor Society members stand above other candidates when applying for jobs, they receive additional consideration for scholarships, and they are given high recommendations from their instructors. These students communicate effectively, assume leadership roles, work productively with team members, have problem-solving abilities, and time management skills, all of which prepare them for lifelong learning, successful careers, and engaged citizenship.

Inductions for students who have completed the requirements for membership in the I.S.D. CTE Honor Society are announced at the CTE Awards Program in May. See application guidelines on the following page.

Delta-Schoolcraft I.S.D. Career and Technical Education Honor Society Guidelines

Have you:

- Completed at least three quarters of the current school year in a CTE program.
- Had six or fewer excused absences per semester.
- Achieved a grade of "A" in your CTE program in each of the first three quarters of the school year.
- Committed to maintain your grade of "A" through the end of the school year.
- Volunteered at least 10 hours with non-profit community organizations during the current school year.

If so, you may qualify for induction into the CTE Honor Society by completing the following:

1. Volunteer at least 10 hours with non-profit organizations if you have not already done so.
2. Ask for and receive a recommendation from your CTE teacher.
3. Fill out the application form.
4. Submit 2 or 3 digital JPEG pictures of yourself by email attachment to Ms. Carley at carley@dsisd.net such as:
 - Photo doing volunteer work in the community
 - Photo doing a hands-on activity in your CTE class or at your CTE worksite
 - Photo doing an after-school job or a hobby you enjoy

Photos could be used for such things as the honor society induction ceremonies, at an I.S.D. School Board presentation, with a newspaper article about the honor society, at the spring awards banquet, or for other purposes.

Honor Society members often help in positions of responsibility such as membership in the CTE Tour Guide Team, serving as advisory council members for their CTE program, acting as ambassadors for the I.S.D. and the Career and Technical Education department, and assisting instructors when needed.

Submit the application form, documentation of community service and your photos by Friday, April 3, 2020

Applications will be reviewed by a committee of CTE staff and administrators. Students will be informed whether or not they were selected to be in the Honor Society.

Inductees will receive a letter of recommendation from CTE Director, Mr. Trent Bellingar and their CTE Honors Society certificate at the spring awards ceremony on Thursday, May 7 at the Escanaba Senior High School auditorium at 7:00 pm.
